Fire

6. For the purpose of Regulations 7 to 15 inclusive an "explosive and flammable liquid" means one which when vaporized and mixed with air in proper proportion is explosive or flammable.

7.—(1) Before any vessel enters any dry dock, shipbuilding or ship repair plant or any other establishment in the Port for the purpose of undergoing construction work or repairs or alterations of any kind, due diligence shall be used by the owner or operator to free from gas the compartments and pipe lines of such vessel. A certificate prepared by a chemist designated by the Commissioner for Public Utilities (hereinafter called "the chemist") certifying that the compartments are free from dangerous concentrations of flammable, explosive or toxic gases shall be obtained by the officials of such dry dock, shipbuilding or ship repair plant or other establishment and copies thereof shall be furnished to the master and representative of the owner: Provided that this paragraph shall not apply to a vessel which has to dry dock for examination or bottom painting or enter a repair yard for repairs confined solely to work on the rudder, propellor, tail shaft or other parts remote from the cargo compartments in which case the cargo compartments shall be sealed during the whole time the vessel is in the repair yard.

(2) Nothing contained in paragraph (1) of this regulation shall prohibit the cleaning and gas-freeing of vessels at a place especially set apart for such purpose by a dry dock, shipbuilding or ship repair plant or other establishment.

(3) Nothing contained in paragraph (1) of this regulation shall be construed to prohibit the immediate dry docking of a vessel in a sinking condition or having a seriously damaged bottom making it impractical to clean and gas-free her tanks in advance.

(4) In any place in the Port other than the places set out in paragraph (1) of this regulation, no repairs requiring the use of fire or spark producing tools or equipment shall be made in or around tanks or pump rooms or upon pumps, cargo lines, heater coils or smothering lines or in any space subject to gas emission or accumulation unless such tanks and other spaces shall have been freed of sediment and dangerous concentrations of flammable, explosive or toxic gases and passed as such by the chemist. Where fire or open flame equipment is used the adjacent tanks and spaces shall be filled with water or gas-freed and passed as such by the chemist.

(5) Where repairs are necessary in or around cargo tanks or spaces subject to gas accumulation which do not require the use of fire or spark producing equipment the tank or space in question shall be cleaned thoroughly and freed of dangerous concentrations of flammable, explosive or toxic gases before proceeding with such repairs.

(6) Overhaul of pumps and pipe lines at sea and emergency repairs necessary to permit the vessel to go forward either at sea or in port where facilities for obtaining a chemist's certificate are lacking, may be executed without such certificate: Provided, however, all other provisions of paragraphs (4) and (5) of this regulation are complied with.

8.—(1) The process of freeing tanks or other spaces of vapour shall be by the steaming method or any other effective method as is permitted in each case by the chemist after examination of the air contained.

(2) An approved gas detector shall be provided at all docks, shipbuilding or ship repair yards or other places where repairs are executed in order to facilitate the frequent determination of gas concentration, which detectors shall be used only by approved persons by and under the general supervision of the chemist.

9.—(1) If the steaming method is used the procedure shall be as follows: tanks shall be closed and live steam blown into the tanks, compartments or spaces to be cleaned for a period of time to be governed by the condition or nature of the oil or other substances contained in such tanks.

(2) Regardless of the method used for freeing tanks of vapour, all pipes leading to or from such tanks, compartments or spaces shall be thoroughly washed out and cleansed and all pipes connecting to other tanks containing oil shall be effectively blanked off and vent pipes shall be proved and left open.

(3) Inasmuch as the time for steaming will be determined by the foregoing, no definite rule is laid down to cover all contingencies but the following table is recommended as covering average conditions:

Where

L—Length of compartment in feet

B—Breadth of compartment in feet

H—Depth of compartment in feet

the time of steaming is arrived at by taking the number of hours given in the table under the actual size of steam connection corresponding to the value given for  $L \times B \times H$ , or the volume in cubic feet of the compartment to be steamed. Size of steam connection at 100 pounds pressure.

Value of $L \times B \times H$ not exceeding	1 in. hours steaming	1¼ in. hours steaming	1½ in. hours steaming
30,000	20	14	10
40,000	26	18	13
50,000	32	22	16
60,000	38	26	19
70,000	44	30	22

The above calculations are based on a steam pressure of 100 lbs. per square inch.

In steaming tanks the last one-fifth of the steaming period should be carried out with the manhole plates or tank lids opened to the atmosphere.

(4) Upon completion of the operation set out in paragraph (1) of this regulation the tank or space so treated shall have all manhole plates and covers or other openings removed and thoroughly ventilated by means of wind sails, forced or induced draft.

(5) Following the completion of freeing such tanks of vapour, specimens of air shall be taken by the chemist. These specimens shall be analysed and tested by him and, if the tank or space from which the specimens have been taken still contain dangerous concentrations of flammable, explosive or toxic gases, such further steaming or ventilation shall be carried out as recommended by the chemist so that such tanks may be freed of all dangerous concentrations of flammable, explosive or toxic gases.

10. The tests prescribed and required by these regulations shall be made by the chemist and his certificate shall indicate that the tank or space in question has been entered by him, thoroughly examined and found to be free of sediment and dangerous concentrations of flammable, explosive or toxic gases: Provided that where sediment and oil shall have been removed but the chemist considers dangerous regeneration of gas may be possible from unreachable oil remaining in crevices or under scale, he shall note on his certificate the necessity of further testing of such tanks while undergoing repairs and such tests as shall be recommended by him shall be made before completion of the repairs covered by the certificate.

11.—(1) While repairs or cleaning operations (but not the taking of air specimens) are underway a current of air under forced or induced draft shall be continuously circulated through the tank or other space.

(2) Ventilation may be accomplished by wind sails draft forced or indirectly by a blower pump or fan. It is recommended that the compressor or other air unit have a minimum capacity of not less than four hundred cubic feet of free air per minute and that the motor and fan shall be of a type safe for use in hazardous atmospheres.

12.—(1) Open lights or fire shall be kept remote from any opening in any tank or space not conditioned for repair as previously set out in these regulations. Lights carried into such tanks shall be electric and of a type approved for use in gaseous mines. Approved electric hand flashlights may be used as accessories. Where possible repairs shall be made during daylight.

(2) Portable connected electric lamps are prohibited except where cables are protected by a conduit and approved lamps securely attached thereto. Approved self-contained electric battery lamps may also be used.

(3) No repairs of any kind shall be made until the foreman in charge of the work is provided with a permit signed by a person authorized by the Commissioner for Public Utilities. This permit shall not be issued until the tank or compartment or other space has been freed of flammable, explosive or toxic gases and shall be carried by the foreman in charge and shown upon request to anyone in authority. Such permit shall contain such terms and conditions as shall be deemed necessary by the authorized official.

13. Should any emergency require the entering of a tank, compartment or other space before it is thoroughly free of flammable, explosive or toxic gases the person or persons so entering shall be protected by an air hose or a gas mask approved for such purpose by the Government Engineer. A rope shall be attached to the body of each man at work in the tank and each rope shall be held by two or more men outside the tank. Persons at work within the tank shall be under constant attendance so that upon any indication of trouble they may be withdrawn. Oxygen breathing apparatus may be worn for a period of not more than twenty minutes after which it shall be aired for not less than six hours before being used again. Wearers of respiratory apparatus shall be instructed and trained in its use before being permitted to enter a dangerous atmosphere.

14. Whenever any supply of explosive and flammable liquid is stored an adequate quantity of foamite or other medium approved by the Government Engineer for the smothering of oil fire shall be kept immediately available at all times.

15. The following conditions shall be observed during the conduct of welding operations:

- (a) Welding operators when engaged in welding work in or in close vicinity of the Port shall follow the procedure outlined by the manufacturer of the apparatus in use in such work insofar as it deals with the sequence of operations in lighting, adjusting and extinguishing blowpipe flames and connecting up the apparatus to the source of gas supply.
- (b) No device or attachment facilitating or permitting mixture of air or oxygen with combustible gases prior to consumption, except at the burner or in a standard torch or blowpipe, shall be used unless approved for the purpose by the Government Engineer.
- (c) No person shall generate or utilize acetylene at a pressure in excess of fifteen pounds per square inch guage pressure: Provided that this paragraph shall not apply to the storage of acetylene dissolved in a suitable solvent in cylinders.
- (d) No person shall in any welding operation use liquid acetylene.
- (e) Tests of any piping system or apparatus for leaks shall be made only with soapy water made from grease-free soap.
- (f) No lights or other source of ignition shall be permitted near uncapped openings when combustible gas lines or other parts of equipment are being purged of air or gas.

- (g) Every person using metal tools, including the "sparkless" type of such tools, for opening carbide containers or for making repairs shall use the same in such a manner as to avoid causing a spark.
- (h) No person shall move any acetylene generator by a crane or derrick while such generator is charged with carbide.
- (i) (i) Oxygen cylinders, valves, regulators, hose and other apparatus and fittings shall be kept free from oil and grease.

(ii) No person shall handle any oxygen cylinders, apparatus and fittings with oily hands, oily clothes or greasy materials.
- (j) No person shall bring acetylene gas into contact with unalloyed copper, except in a blowpipe or torch.
- (k) No person shall lift oxygen cylinders with an electro magnet.
- (l) Cylinder valves not provided with fixed hand-wheels shall have keys or handles affixed on valves, spindles or stems while the cylinders are in service.
- (m) It shall not be lawful to support welding or cutting work on compressed gas cylinders or other containers.
- (n) It shall not be lawful to use oxygen from a cylinder unless such cylinder is provided with a pressure regulating device intended for that purpose only.

- (o) It shall not be lawful to use fuel gas from cylinders through torches or other equipment equipped with shut-off valves unless the pressure is reduced through a suitable regulator attached to the cylinder valve. Pressure adjusting screws on regulators shall always be fully released before the regulator is attached to the cylinder and the cylinder valve opened and the valve on cylinders of compressed gas shall always be opened slowly.
- (p) Before a regulator is removed from a cylinder valve the cylinder valve shall be closed and the gas released from the regulator.
- (q) Oxygen and fuel gas cylinders and acetylene generators shall be placed at such a distance from the welding position as not to allow them to be unduly heated by radiation from heated materials or by sparks or slag or by misdirection of the torch flame.
- (r) If any fuel gas cylinder is found to have leaky valves or fittings which the closing off of the valves will not stop, the cylinders shall be taken into the open away from any source of ignition and slowly drained of gas.
- (s)
  - (i) Whenever possible cutting or welding work shall be removed to a distance of not less than thirty feet from a combustible location and where welding or cutting work must be done in the vicinity of combustible material special precautions shall be taken to make certain that sparks or hot slag shall not reach the combustible material.
  - (ii) Floors, piers, wharves and other similar constructions made of combustible material shall be protected by a suitable non-combustible material.

- 't) All welding operators when engaged in welding or cutting work in or in close proximity to the Port shall be provided with a suitable fire extinguisher of not less than two gallon capacity which shall be available for immediate use at all times and all such operators shall have full knowledge of the method of using such extinguisher.

Oil

No oil, tar or other like substance nor any inflammable or other dangerous substances, shall be thrown, discharged, drained or allowed to fall, flow or leak into the waters of the Port, and any person contravening this regulation or any person in charge of or owning any vessel, manufactory, works, house, or other premises violating the provisions of this regulation shall be guilty of an offence against these regulations.

19. No person shall use a hose for filling or discharging petroleum products from or to a vessel unless it is of sufficient length, size and suitably supported to prevent undue strain thereon in the event of the said vessel moving during the loading or discharging operation, and all devices used shall be of such a character as to minimize leakage and be connected through substantial fittings to the satisfaction of the Harbour Master.

20. No person shall permit fuel oil to be fed to the suction pump at a pre-heat temperature higher than its flash point. Open ends of all pipes, hose or other outlets used in delivering oil or petroleum products either to or from any vessel in the Port, shall when not in use be securedly capped. Piping on vessels being supplied with oil and on barges or other vessels used for delivery of oils shall be equipped, at the point where hose connection is made, with approved shut-off valves, so located as to be readily accessible in emergency.

21. No person shall use a scow, barge or vessel for transporting gasoline, oil, or petroleum products of any kind, in, on or about the Port without first having the same duly examined and approved by the Harbour Master as satisfactory for that purpose, and the said scow, barge or vessel shall be examined and approved annually.

In no case shall preference be given to the freight of any shipper to be carried on the said ship.

13. In consideration of the due performance of the terms and conditions herein set forth the Government will pay to the Contractors during the continuance of this Agreement the sum of nine thousand dollars payable in twelve monthly instalments of seven hundred and fifty dollars each.

Any dispute arising between the parties hereto shall be referred to three arbitrators, of whom one shall be appointed by the Commissioner for Public Utilities and one shall be appointed by the Contractors: Provided that if the Contractors shall fail to nominate an arbitrator within seven days of notice in writing from the Commissioner for Public Utilities so to do, then the said Commissioner shall appoint an arbitrator on behalf of the Contractors. The third arbitrator shall be appointed by the two arbitrators appointed in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this clause: Provided that if the two said arbitrators shall be unable to agree upon a third, either party may apply to a Judge of the Supreme Court in Chambers, who may appoint such third arbitrator.
